Our products
There are three main types of panels on the market and Solar Newcastle chooses to use the most technologically Mono-crystalline and Thin Film (A-Si). You can rest easy knowing we will recommend the best type of panel to suit your needs.

Mono-crystalline panels
The Mono-crystalline is the most popular domestic panel used in Australia and is well suited to our weather conditions.

Quick Look: Mono-crystalline Panels 180W
Brand: Solar Australia
Dimensions: 1654 x 674 x 35mm
Weight: 15.5kg
Area: 1.12m<sup>2</sup>
Cell Type: 125x125mm Mono-crystalline, 72qrs in series

- High reliability with guaranteed 4% to 1% power output tolerance.
- The panel withstands high wind pressure, high resistance to hot spikes, and extreme temperature variations.
- Nearly absolute maximum energy frame.
- Max energy 10 years 90% power output and 25 years 80% power output.

Thin Film panels
Solar Newcastle chooses to use the AmpleSun Solar Thin Film polycrystalline module. Manufactured using a state-of-art production process and qualified raw materials, the Thin Film Panels are very efficient in high Australian temperatures and shady conditions.

Quick Look: Thin Film (A-Si) 150W
Brand: AmpleSun Solar
Dimensions: 1614 x 1114 x 35mm
Area: 1.81m<sup>2</sup>
Weight: 20kg

- Exceptional high temperature tolerance - regular crystalline cells decrease in power based on specific Thin Film in hot conditions.
- Great look and appearance where aesthetics are important.
- Helping in power generation especially in summer.
- Exceptional performance in low light and shady conditions.

Inverters
The inverter makes up a very important component of the solar system and there are many different types available in Australia. Rather than having a 'one size fits all' approach, Solar Newcastle chooses to carry a variety of inverters so we can design a system that is most efficient to your home or business. We only source the highest quality products, including 5 year repair and replacement warranty with an option to extend to 10 years on all our inverters. Our inverters of choice are reliable, durable and most importantly come with a very high safety standard.
